You will have a thorough understanding of the principles of psychometric assessment of personality and ability. You will comprehend the limitations of psychometric tests and be able to evaluate any test on the market. You will be able to advise your managers or clients on the effective use of tests, create a testing policy for your organisation based on current legislation and be able to choose an appropriate test for a given situation. You will most notably be competent in the administration, scoring, interpretation and feedback of psychometric assessments. Successful completion of Level 1 & 2 will enable you to apply to the British Psychological Society to be added to their Register of Qualifications in Test Use and to purchase ability, aptitude and personality tests from a large number of UK and international publishers, including (but not limited to) those distributed by PsyAsia International. You will also be able to apply for the Euro Test User Certificate.

You will be able to purchase any aptitude test seen at the PsyAsia website upon successful completion of the combined course, in addition, you will be able to purchase the Identity Personality Questionnaire. You will also have access to another leading personality questionnaire on the market, the Quest Profiler. Other personality test providers may also allow you to use their tests immediately, whilst some will require you to undertake a short conversion course.

Over the years that PsyAsia has been running this course in Asia, our many satisfied delegates have told us how much more confident they feel when using psychometric tests either in their organisations or with their prestigious clients. Being qualified from our course distinguishes you significantly from other users of psychometric tests who typically receive either no or very basic training from non-psychologist facilitators.
