Identity Careers Report

The Careers Feedback Report can help decision makers gain an insight into a candidate's preferences, style of learning and which vocations may be best suited to their interests. The results are intended to help guide decision makers towards potential careers, occupations or educational programs that the candidate might enjoy rather than providing a prescription of what the candidate should be doing.

This report has been generated based upon the test candidate's responses to the 'identity' questionnaire i.e. it is a 'self-perception' report. It is important to keep in mind that the report measures the candidate's preferences, not their skills or abilities.
